Profile

I graduated from the National Defense University in July 2021. Contrary to my profession and academic career, I have been interested in computer and web technologies since middle school in many branches (Seo, Front-end Web Development, WordPress CMS...) I improved myself by experimenting with online training and Bootcamp processes. I have been pursuing this interest as a hobby and freelance work, and I am currently integrating it into my business life as a Front-End Developer at ID3 company. At the same time, I continue to work as a Web Manager at Bublogta Digital Content Platform, where I am the founder.

Projects

Bublogta Digital Content Platform, Bublogta.com ↗

11/2019 – Present

It is a digital content platform where everyone has the opportunity to bring their ideas together with the readers on the subject they want just by registering. Everyone can create a portfolio by developing their own profile and present it to thousands of readers with Bublogta, which we have developed to acquire a digital literacy culture. I continue to be the Web Manager of Bublogta, of which I am one of the founders.
