Profile

I graduated from the National Defense University in July 2021. Contrary to my academic career, I've developed myself in many areas of this branch for hobby purposes since I've been extremely interested in computer and web technologies starting from my secondary school age, and I also took the opportunity to gain experience in this branch. Since I want to continue my career in this direction in the future, I continue to develop myself as a Fronted Developer and continue bootcamp processes supported by online trainings. I continue to undertake the task of web site administrator of the digital content platform Bublogta that I am the founder of
